As if 1950s and weaves together the life of the assimilated sister         which is leading a double life in New Orleans first and then Los Angeles          with that of the other, which is forced to return to House. When the object of its fixation disappears, Maite begins to look for her, but she is not in the grain. He tries to discover his life in a qestion in the 1960s and ends up relating to two women who could not be more different: Naoko, ex-girlfriend of his best friend, and Midori, one of his classmates of his class . Half addresses the subject of the passage when it comes to racial identity. There are many descriptions on the proper picnic costume, the beauty of the landscape and the relationships that unite this group of adolescents and their teachers.
